1 INTRODUCTION

I WILL MAKE BRIDGES

In his words to youth and journalists, on social media, and in his homilies, Pope Francis has repeatedly called for all of us to be builders of bridges. He tells us that “to serve hope in our day is to build bridges,” and reminds us that bridges can unite us and overcome hatred. Bridges can be as simple as a handshake or as great as international peace agreements. Bridges connect us to our brothers and sisters, build relationships, and help us to acknowledge our common human dignity.

At Jesuit Refugee Service/USA, we strive to respond to this call through our work in the United States and around the world.

JRS/USA is pleased to present our 2018 Annual Report, where we tell the story of the response to this call. In 2018, our work to build bridges spanned from El Paso, Texas where we provided pastoral support to migrant detainees to Lebanon where we provided school lunches.

Your generous support – sharing your resources, advocating to your legislators, and sharing stories of refugees with your networks and communities – allowed us to do this work in 2018.

Thank you for being a bridge builder and a part of the JRS/USA family.

RECONCILIATION FOR DETAINEES

Jesuit Refugee Service/USA's Detention Chaplaincy Program provides pastoral and religious assistance to non-citizens detained by the Department of Homeland Security in five U.S. federal detention centers – in Florence, Arizona; Miami, Florida; Batavia, New York; and El Paso and Los Fresnos, Texas. In 2018, JRS provided services to 10,453 migrants through this program.

The key dimension of the program is ensuring that people of all religious traditions can practice their faith, as they heal from their trials and tribulations. JRS/USA distributes religious materials and identifies volunteer faith leaders who can lead religious services for those in need. Detainees are also provided stress management classes and psychosocial support.

“Give us the time, Father, to value the most important things we have. It is a privilege being able to awaken to one more day of life. To see, to smell, to pray, to feel, to be able to take a shower,” a detainee served by JRS/USA Detention Chaplaincy Program says during her prayer. “But Father, unfortunately there are many brothers and sisters who do not have the privilege of being able to enjoy what many, with or without intention, do not value.”

PROVIDING SAFE SPACES

More than half of school-aged refugee children in Chad are not enrolled in school. Many of the more than 100,000 unenrolled children were born in refugee camps after their families fled conflict in their native Darfur, Sudan. The ongoing conflict, which has no end in sight, has kept Darfuri refugees from returning home for more than a decade.

Djamila is 12 years old and until very recently was among the 56 percent of school-age refugee children in Chad not going to school. Like many other children her age, Djamila had to work to support her family and took on a lot of responsibilities in her house, like caring for her younger sister.

JRS runs Child Friendly Spaces (CFSs) in refugee camps in eastern Chad as part of their child protection program. At the CFSs children are allowed to be children. The CFSs also offer support to families by helping refer them to services and enroll children in school. Djamila started participating in activities at a JRS CFS and now, thanks to the support that the CFSs provided, Djamila is enrolled in school and is hopeful for her future.

A TEACHER'S LOVE

Outside Beirut, in a neighborhood called Bourj Hammoud, JRS provides learning support and early childhood education for Syrian refugees at the Frans van der Lugt Centre. The Centre's teachers and staff conduct home visits and provide a variety of services to refugee youth, including homework support, language instruction, a summer program and a Youth Club primarily for out-of-school students. The kindergarten classes offered in the morning and afternoon also provide breakfast and snacks to children. Students receive critical instruction in a loving environment to prepare them for entry into the Lebanese public school system.

The Centre's largest program focuses on early childhood education, with a series of eight kindergarten classes that serve 240 students. It's also a safe haven for the children and provides peace of mind to their families. Many of the children live in difficult conditions and suffer from neglect and stress, given the trials they and their families have been through and continue to endure.

Aida Akl from Lebanon and Hanna Khoury from Syria are both compassionate kindergarten teachers at the Centre. Aida has taught kindergarten for two years and said she feels “incredible happiness” in her job. Hanna arrived in Lebanon over a year ago fleeing the civil war in Syria. He understands the challenges his students face and says, “I feel a responsibility to keep them happy, because I know how much they suffered in the war.”

JRS/USA has contributed more than $11.9 million to the JRS Global Education Initiative, funding education projects around the world, including projects in Lebanon.

GEI UPDATE

Education is not only a critical part of providing security and hope after people flee emergencies, but quality education also ensures that refugees are able to access the economic opportunities needed for life. Jesuit Refugee Service works to ensure that education is accessible to all who are displaced.

Millions of refugee children are traumatized by displacement. Education offers a critical antidote to this trauma – a path forward to a more peaceful and just world. The JRS Global Education Initiative (GEI), launched in 2015, is an ambitious international campaign to enable JRS to open the doors of our education programs to a quarter of a million refugees each year by 2020.

With the partnership of thousands who invested in our vision, JRS is thrilled to announce that we accomplished the first of two GEI goals: 253,496 refugees participated in JRS education programs in 2018! Yet, we need to make this accomplishment sustainable and expand it to meet the needs of the growing number of displaced people. Help us raise the additional $6.7 million to meet the GEI's financial goal of $35 million, so that we can always provide students hope and a brighter future.

JRS/USA OUTREACH AND ADVOCACY

Building bridges of welcome for refugees is an important part of our mission at JRS/USA. Our work to fulfill this mission includes advocating for policies that welcome, holding events to create awareness, and sharing stories and information about refugees' journeys.

In 2018, JRS/USA increased awareness of refugee issues in the U.S. through our Walk a Mile in My Shoes refugee simulation, which was hosted 21 times by schools, parishes, and communities across the country. JRS/USA also organized a speakers tour with JRS Malta Country Director and globally recognized human rights activist, Katrine Camilleri, in communities and at Jesuit institutions in California, Washington, and Oregon.

JRS/USA also advocated for more welcoming policies with direct impact on refugees, including passage and acceptance of the Global Compact on Refugees (GCR) by the United Nations. Adopted in late 2018, the GCR is an international agreement that provides a framework for states and other actors to work together to generate international support and responsibility-sharing to improve the lives of refugees.

JRS supporters at different parishes, colleges, and universities around the country held refugee simulations - including Gonzaga College High School in Washington, D.C.

5 BRIDGES TO A NEW LIFE

SUPPORT TO ACHIEVE DREAMS

Based in Quito, Fabiola Cordero works with refugees and asylum seekers from Venezuela and Colombia to develop the necessary skills to enter the local economy. As the JRS Ecuador Livelihoods Coordinator, Fabiola collaborates with refugees in developing business plans and putting them into action. Most importantly, Fabiola helps guide those she serves in discovering their motivations and unlocking their entrepreneurial potential. Her work is made possible through the support of the U.S. Department of State Bureau for Population, Refugees and Migration (PRM). The entrepreneurial courses provide business development and management skills, creation of micro-business plans, access to start-up capital, and follow-up support to ensure that their businesses become a sustainable source of income for their families.

“It’s a joy for us to see how someone can become a part of the local economy... we must keep supporting them until they can achieve their dreams,” says Fabiola Cordero.

One of Fabiola’s students, Daniel, was able to unlock his entrepreneurial potential as a sunglasses vendor. With the help of Fabiola, Daniel developed a business plan, and with start-up capital provided by JRS Ecuador, he was able to buy his first stock of sunglasses. He is currently able to pay for his living expenses in Ecuador, and now not only sells sunglasses, but also umbrellas and headphones. He plans to keep expanding his business and employ fellow refugees.

Fabiola Cordero, JRS Ecuador’s Livelihoods Coordinator, teaches her students in her entrepreneurial skills training course.

In 2018, JRS/USA received a total of $6.5 million from the U.S. Department of State PRM, for work in Cameroon, Chad, Ecuador, Kenya, South Africa, South Sudan, Thailand, and Uganda.

JRS/USA FINANCIAL INFORMATION

2018 was an extraordinary year for JRS/USA. Thanks to generous philanthropic support and increased funding from the U.S. government, JRS/USA was able to continue to provide essential financial resources to JRS programs overseas.

JRS/USA PROGRAM SPENDING

Funds raised through JRS/USA support programs in the United States and are distributed to the nine Jesuit Refugee Service regions throughout the globe. In 2018, JRS/USA helped JRS serve 677,804 people in 56 countries and expended the following in each region:

Students at a Complementary Education Center (CEC) in one of 107 refugee camps in Tamil Nadu, India where JRS provides services.

7 THANK YOU TO OUR DONORS

On behalf of the JRS/USA Board of Directors and staff, it is a great pleasure for me to thank the individuals, companies, and foundations on the following pages who have supported our important, life-changing work in 2018. Your generosity has enabled us to improve the lives of thousands of refugees throughout the globe.

Last year, 2,471 generous donors gave a total of $3,858,521. We are grateful to all our supporters and partners for your accompaniment of, service to, and advocacy for refugees and forcibly displaced people. Support from the Jesuit Conference of Canada and the United States covers nearly all our fundraising expenses, allowing us to direct your contributions to JRS programs that assist people who have been forced to flee their homes around the world.

There are many very worthy causes our donors can support. I thank you for making JRS and the people we serve a personal priority.

Sincerely,

Robert H. Niehaus, Chair

I'm donating in gratitude to the Society of Jesus for all their work to stand with the marginalized and powerless. Especially in your work with JRS to not just be a "voice for the voiceless" but to actually accompany, serve, and advocate in a way that empowers the poor to be agents of their own future. JRS gives me hope!

I support JRS because I have seen with my own eyes the good that JRS has done in refugee camps in Tanzania and in urban refugee centers in Johannesburg, Paris, and Siem Reap, Cambodia. JRS leadership and staff live up to their commitment to accompany and serve refugees with deep respect, and advocate for their well-being with prophetic integrity and cultural sensitivity. JRS incarnates the best of Catholic social teaching, while also promoting interfaith dialogue and cooperation for the sake of integral human development.

I graduated from a Jesuit university and was taught the importance of caring for the refugee. I believe JRS is responsible and has a valuable ‘feet on the ground’ approach to making sure our donations go to the people that need them most.
